About Christal

Christal D. Crockett is a multifaceted visionary, web designer, and marketing strategist who is the founder and CEO of The Scribes Collective, an emerging publishing boutique that specializes in bringing creative visions and impactful stories to fruition by providing comprehensive support for self-publishing creative works to create influence and legacy.

Before launching The Scribes Collective, Christal published A coloring prayer journal and a goal-setting book for Christian entrepreneurs. In addition, Christal has published 6 ebooks and over 30+ blogs that have been transformational to the lives of readers.

Christal is also the founder of Women of God Online Ministry, a discipleship ministry designed to call women in the church back to a place of prayer and intimacy with Christ. Our vision is to see families free from the bondage of generational curses and to train women and young women to be warriors of intercession.

Christal's purpose is unwavering—to infuse every spoken word with the essence of Jesus and to empower those who doubt their qualifications, reminding them of their divine calling, chosen status, and immeasurable value in the eyes of God.
